OUTLOOK

The country's inflation rate continue to decline. This has resulted to further rate cuts by the BSP, thus pulling interest rates once again on both primary and secondary market bond offerings. As of September 2019, the Central Bank of the Philippines cut its overnight reverse repurchase facility by 25bps to 4%. It is the third slash so far this year and follows a 25 bps cut in the previous meeting, amid weakening global growth. Looking forward, we estimate Interest Rate in Philippines to stand at 4% in 12 months' time. In the long-term, the Philippines Interest Rate is projected to trend around 3.50% in 2020, according to our econometric models.
