OUTLOOK

Inflation trended lower in the 1st quarter of 2025, with March 2025 print of 1.80%, well within the BSP's target range of 2% - 4%. Albeit lower inflation data, the BSP maintained the benchmark interest rate at 5.75% during its February 13, 2025, policy meeting, opting for a cautious approach amid global uncertainties, including trade policy shifts. The PSEI reflected a period of heightened volatility and investor caution as it declined during the first quarter shaped by a combination of dismal economic growth, global economic uncertainties, and foreign capital outflows. The 5.6% growth on Philippine economy fell short of its target of 6% to 6.5% raising concerns about the economic trajectory of the country. The U.S. Federal Reserve's decision to keep the interest rates steady despite worsening inflation intensified investor apprehension. Further, trade policy uncertainties and tariff threats led to a sell-off in equities and substantial foreign outflows. Despite global trade turmoil and geo-political tensions, the Philippine economy is still poised to grow between 5.7% and 6.1% in 2025. With inflation, likewise projected to remain within the target range, supportive monetary policies are expected, setting the Philippine equity market for a rebound in 2025 encouraging investor optimism.
